GENERAL NEWS SUMMARY.

The corner stone of the new state asylum for Idiots in New York was laid with appropriate ceremonies at Syracuse on Friday.

Over four thousand pigeons were received in Boston on Tuesday from Manchester, N. H.

The mother of Senator Fish of New York is dead. She was the widow of the late Col. Nicholas Fish of the U. S. army, was an old Knickerbocker and a lineal descendant of old Gov. Stuyvesant.

The iron puddlers of Pittsburg have been on a strike for higher wages since the 17th of June, and the employers seeing no prospect of coming to terms, sent east and engaged hands. Fifteen of these arrived at Hallman & Co.'s mill, where the strike party soon gathered and threatened a disturbance. The aid of the sheriff, mayor and police was called in and the rioters dispersed.

The second expedition sent out by Henry Grinnell to the Artic seas, under command of Dr. Kane, was last heard from on the 23d of July, 1853, when he was at upper Naviac on the west coast of Greenland; but he is expected to report himself in New York in the course of next month. Should he not be heard from in that time, it will be surmised that he has decided upon spending another winter at the North.

There is a young woman in Utica, N. Y., who has been suffering for several years from the growth of a reptile in her stomach. Various attempts to destroy it have proved ineffectual, and she is in momentary danger of death from it. A singular phenomena connected with this case is, that when the young woman looks at anything offensive to the invisible tormentor, she is immediately thrown into violent paroxysms.

Jesse Woodworth of Milton being in Boston on Friday with a yoke of cattle which he was desirous of selling, paid ninety-five dollars for a little valuable information which he might have obtained of the newspapers at a much cheaper rate. He bargained his oxen to two strangers, who gave him a check for ninety-five dollars more than the price agreed upon, he paying the balance in good money. They then left, telling him that they would send for the oxen but failed to do so, and the check which they gave him proves to be worth no more than so much brown paper.

The New York Tribune relates a case that is highly illustrative of the bad effects of evil company in perverting a noble nature. A gentleman in that city was awakened from sleep a few nights since by an unusual noise in his room, and on opening his eyes perceived two ruffians standing near his bed, and between them and the bed a fierce looking bull-dog that appeared to be watching him closely. After surveying the group a moment the gentleman began to move himself slowly as though about to awake, when the two men, fearing discovery, doubtless, retreated noiselessly to the window, out of which they crept, leaving the dog to keep watch over the supposed sleeping man. After the men had got safely out, the dog, without a word having been spoken, walked to the window; he then turned round and took another look at the bed, as if to satisfy himself that all was right, and leaped out of the window and the trio of robbers departed.

Under the jurisdiction of the U. S. Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows, there are 3110 Lodges, with 204,000 members, their annual revenue being $1,375,000, and expenditures for benevolent purposes $530,000. The Grand Lodge of British America having been extinguished, the Grand Lodge of the United States has, at the desire of the members of the Order in Canada, resumed its authority over all the continent north of us. When this resumption took place, on the 14th of October last, there were but six Lodges in British North America, but now there are fifteen. The Grand Master of California has inquired of the Grand Sire as to the propriety of admitting Chinese members to the Order, and allowing them to have a Lodge at work in the Chinese language, and the reply has been favorable. Pennsylvania has the largest Grand Lodge in the Union, with over five hundred subordinate Lodges, and a membership but little short of fifty thousand.

The mail pouch made up at the Philadelphia post-office for Dayton, Ohio, on the 5th inst., was rifled of its content before it reached its place of destination.

Three men were arrested at Buffalo on Saturday, on suspicion of having been concerned in the late robbery of the express messengers at Cincinnati.

John Larkin of Boston was knocked down and robbed of his money, watch and revolver at Milwaukie, Wis., on Tuesday night of last week.

John Nixon, captain of a canal boat, on Monday night last week interfered to prevent a man named Benjamin Brewer from beating his wife to death, near Pittsburg, Pa., and was himself beaten to death. The murderer is still at large.

Mrs Wilson, whose distressing captivity among the Camanches has excited such deep sympathy, learns that her two brothers-in-law, lads who were captured at the same time that she was, have made their escape and are now in good hands.

Grisi and Mario are picking up in New York. On Monday night, they drew 4 000 to hear Norma. They will probably go ahead, now, though their ill-success at the start, in drawing paying houses, induced them to propose to give up their engagement and go home.

On the late excursion up the Mississippi, a gentleman in the wash-room said to the captain of the boat: "Can't you give me a clean towel, captain?" "No said the captain, more than fifty passengers have used that towel there, and you are the first one that's said a word against it."

Napoleon III retains little of the Caesarian type in the expression of his head. His eyes are blue, icy, small and shaded; his temples of a leaden hue; his complexion flickers between bronze and unburnished silver; his hair is sandy, and threaded with white; his mustache is foxy; his goatee tipped with red or auburn, while its shaded roots are very pale.

The Albany Knickerbocker states that a red headed apprentice in Lansingburg recently dashed out his brains with a molasses jug, and the owner of the jug has sued the town for the value of the stone ware. This is the first excitement they have had in that town since the opening of the Erie canal, when Deacon Stokes was knocked from his horse by the bursting of a wooden swivel.

The New York statistics of emmigration show that the Irish emigrants are diminishing in numbers, while the Germans are increasing and are now much in advance of the Irish in numbers.—In Ireland the emigration has been so great that there is an actual scarcity of agricultural laborers, and good wages can now be obtained at home, which has taken away one cause for emigration.

The editor of the Le Roy Gazette brags on the Canandaigua and Niagara Falls railroad, because while he was on board, the train killed five cattle and seven hogs, one after another, without at all checking its mile-a-minute speed! He declares that the train could have killed as many more and still have made good time.—We doubt whether any other road could say as much.

A fashionable New York family, on returning to their city residence last week after a brief sojourn in the country, found that during their absence the rats had gnawed through the water pipe and let such a flood of Croton water on the carpets and furniture as to almost utterly destroy them. An elegant piano that cost $280 was sold for $70 in consequence of the injury, and the carpet, rugs and mats were so rotted that they fall to pieces.

Haverstraw, Md., was visited by a frightful tornado, attended with rain, thunder and lightning, on Thursday last. The fury of the gale was terrific, trees, sheds and fences flying before it like chaff. Five or six buildings were prostrated, and one, a new one nearly finished, was lifted clean off its foundations and literally torn into fragments. A tornado passed over North Turner, Me, on the same day, destroying only one building belonging to Essex Fuller.

The Cincinnati Commercial gives the particulars of a collision that occurred on the underground railroad one morning last week. A train containing some Kentuckians ran into the underground vehicles and smashed the rear car, which contained two negroes, a big one and a little one, both of the male species. The big one ran across the fields at tremendous speed, and escaped unhurt. The little one was captured by the Kentuckians, but a crowd gathered and raised a breeze, and the little fellow also gave leg bail. The conductors of the opposing trains drew sundry revolvers and made various hostile demonstrations, but no blood was shed.

Lightning cut strange freaks in the house of Henry Rogers in Newburyport last week. It entered the bedroom in which two young men were sleeping, split the head-board and shattered the posts of the bedstead without injuring the occupants of the bed; passed thence to an adjoining room, tearing from under a feather bed, occupied by Mr Rogers and his wife, a straw bed and scattering the straw in all directions, and breaking every pane of glass in the windows, throwing the fragments thirty-six feet to the south. Articles were passed from one to another; cards from a rack were found behind a mirror which stood opposite; a piece of meat from the cellar-way was found on the second floor; the stove shattered and broken, and the furniture driven in all directions. But the most remarkable of all was, that not one of the inmates was injured.

The executors of the late Samuel Appleton of Boston, have made a donation of twenty thousand dollars to the Academy at Ipswich, N. H. Mr Appleton made a donation of five thousand dollars to the Seminary four years ago.

BLOOD AND MURDER!

We have Supped Full of Horrors.—On Horror's head Horrors accumulate.

Some of our subscribers think that we do not give sufficient space to the murders, etc., which are going on. We have prepared a dish expressly to suit the dissatisfied ones—it is a dish of whisky and blood peppered with gunpowder, and to be enjoyed must be eaten with a revolver and bowie knife as chop sticks.

The Louisville Courier of Tuesday has the following dainty bits of intelligence:

Jno. Dage, a youth, has been arraigned for a murderous, midnight assault, upon Edwin Johnson, in an eating cellar on the levee. The examination was closed about one o'clock yesterday, and the accused was remanded to jail for a week to await the condition of the stricken man, whose skull had been fractured by a brickbat.

Dr. L. Rogers, the attending physician, stated in court that the wound was a dangerous one; that although the patient was then easy and comparatively safe, the result might terminate fatally in a day or two, or an hour or two or he might ultimately recover. The man's life hung upon a thread, as it were, and last night before 10 o'clock it snapt asunder and the victim expired, thus adding one more crime to the annals of our city.

In our police report we give the particulars of another great crime, perpetrated some days since in our city. The parties are Irish, and are not citizens of Louisville. The crime is of no less magnitude than the commission of rape upon a little girl under twelve years of age, named Margaret Gill. The perpetrator of the deed is one Bartholomew Harrington. Harrington was sent forward to the Criminal Court for trial, and, if convicted, will be subjected to a sentence of death, which, according to our laws, is the punishment provided for rape upon the person of a female under twelve years of age.

A man lost his life yesterday morning in attempting to wade the Ohio at the mouth of Salt river. Some boys, who saw the man drowning, say that they could have saved his life, but the owner of a skiff close by refused them the loan of it.

The Mobile Register of the 5th inst. says:—

We learn that a fatal rencontre took place at Hollywood, Sunday evening last, between a man named Murphy, who resided a short distance from the place, and Mr Sampson, bar-keeper, at Freeman's, in which the former was shot and instantly killed.

Murphy being intoxicated, insisted upon Sampson giving him a drink, which was refused. He then attempted to gain admittance to the bar room through the front door, but finding it impossible, determined to get in at the back door. He succeeded in entering the billiard room adjoining the bar room, and with a Colt revolver, advanced and ordered Mr. Sampson to give him liquor. That gentleman finding his life menaced, and seeing no opportunity of escape, seized his gun and fired. The ball took effect in a vital part, and after a severe struggle for the mastery, he expired.

The Montgomery Advertiser of a late date says:—We understand from a citizen of Greenville, Alabama, that James Williams, who was so desperately wounded in the affray in which young Mr. Gafford was killed, that it was thought that he could not recover, was killed in that town on Monday evening last. Williams had so far recovered as to be able to leave his room; and at about 4 o'clock, P. M., on Monday, he stepped into the porch of his house, apparently to get a drink of water, when he was instantly shot.—Two reports of a gun were heard. He was found to be riddled with buckshot. He died in an hour after he was shot. It was not known who fired the gun, and our informant seemed to think that the people of the village would not put themselves to much trouble to find out. An inquest was held, but no facts were elicited going to show who was the perpetrator of the deed.

The New York Tribune of Monday, has the following delicious summary:

Our Local News department this morning is running over with reports of crime. The inquest in the case of Mr. Brady was finished on Saturday, the verdict being that he came to his death by violence of ruffians unknown to the jury. The gang of rowdies who did this murder are well known, and we trust cannot escape.

Mr. John Morrow, who was stabbed in a dance on the 3d inst., died yesterday. The keeper of the house, John Buschman, is accused of the murder.

A remarkable death occurred yesterday, in this wise: A milkman, Walter Lynch, on Saturday, while serving Mrs. Davis, in Nineteenth street, got into a quarrel with her, struck at her, and broke a pitcher which she held, the pieces of which fell upon a small girl, and cut her head so that she died of the wounds.

About 1 o'clock yesterday morning, three devils, named James Haughey, Thomas Daley and Wm. Oxford, dragged a woman into an alley in First Avenue, where they outraged her and then stole her ear-rings. They are in durance.

Annie Fitzgerald and her son were found dead on Saturday, at their residence on Bleecker st. It seems that she poisoned her child and herself with laudanum. Poverty appears to have been the cause.

A fracas occurred on Saturday night, at the 3d Ward Station House between the Captain of the Police of that Ward and Justice Clark, in consequence of the latter's coming there to discharge a prisoner. If Mr. Clark conducted himself as Capt. Hopkins relates, his early resignation of the functions of a Justice of the Peace will be expected.

The robbery of a Californian at a railroad depot, and a little slung shot practice by a sixth ward boy, complete the leading features of this morning's criminal intelligence.

Brooklyn, Sept. 11.—The body of a man supposed to be a New Yorker, who had evidently been murdered, had drived ashore at Bay Ridge Line, on Saturday. The head had been nearly severed from the body.

THE LAST MURDER.—The Cleveland Leader of the 11th inst. says:

We have before stated that a man by the name of Hopkins had been arrested on a charge of murder in Dalton, near Warrensville. Yesterday the proper authorities from this city disinterred the body and examined it. The physicians were unanimously of the opinion that Dalton had been murdered. The dealer says:

A cut of a knife on the right side of the neck from the ear to the collar bone, not deep enough to sever the juglar vein, but sufficiently severe to cause death by bleeding. On the left breast was also a long shallow cut, and in the centre just below the rim of the breast bone was a stab about half an inch wide and three-fourths of an inch in depth. The physicians could not determine whether the brain was injured, although a stick found near the body covered with clotted blood indicated he had been severely beaten. The physicians are certain that the cuts produced death.

It will be remembered that Dalton's hat was found on Hopkin's head when he was arrested. When Dalton bought the whiskey at Hanchett's, they paid him in change a bogus quarter dollar, which was bent and bruised. Hopkins carried the same piece back to Hanchett, and spent it for liquor. It was recognized at the time as the same piece. Hopkins carried on his person also the pocket book of the deceased. These are strong evidences of guilt, and Hopkins has been committed to take his trial in November for wilful murder.

The Louisville Times of yesterday has the following spicy morsel:

We understand that a very respectable gentleman, residing in the upper part of the city, yesterday cut his throat. It is thought that he will recover. Great God, it seems the devil is fairly let loose in our midst, for there is scarcely a day but what we are called upon to record some horrible murder, homicide, suicide, rape, &c. &c. "Truly we have fallen upon troublous times."

DELICATE CASE.—Yesterday a lady of genteel dress and address, went into a shoe store in Broadway, and wished to purchase a pair of shoes.—The shop keeper displayed several pair, and the lady seated herself to try them on; after which he turned to attend to another customer. Presently the lady said that none of the shoes fitted her, and was about to leave the store; but the man discovered that some of the shoes were missing. He did not know how many, but the supply he placed before her was sufficiently diminished for him to be assured of the fact. He accordingly accused her of taking some of the shoes. She denied the charge, but her trepidation was sufficiently evident to justify the shop keeper in instituting a search. He accordingly commenced the delicate business, and was soon successful. He found several pair of shoes suspended by hooks, which were attached to the lady's garter, evidently for such purposes. He identified his own shoes, and left hanging there two or three pair which did not belong to him.—The lady was softened to tears, and plead with him not to expose or prosecute her, which he promised not to do. We learned the circumstance, and forbear names, as the lady is of undoubted respectability. This discovery should teach her a wholesome lesson.—St. Louis Republican.

A LITTLE HUSBAND AND A LITTLE WIFE.—The Sandusky Register is responsible for this:

Two little children—a boy and a girl, aged respectively four and three years—were missed by their families, and search made everywhere for them, but in vain. The day passed, and considerable alarm existed. Persons were out in all directions, and the bell-ringer had been sent for, when, passing a thicket of bushes in the garden, the mother thought she heard low voices near. Pulling away the leaves there were the truants, with their night clothes on, locked in one another's arms, and very comfortably stowed away for the night. The precocious lovers were startled from their nest, but the boy expressed the utmost indignation; for, said he "the [illegible] had married me and sissy, and that bush was his'n, and they were going to live there till [illegible]." The [illegible] next day, and now they live apart—separated [illegible].

CONGRESSIONAL CONVENTION.

A Mass Convention of all the citizens of the 2d Congressional District who are opposed to the repeal of the Missouri Compromise, and to the further extension and consolidation of the slave power, and in favor of the overthrow of the existing State and National administrations which are pledged to the support of slavery, will be held on the 20th day of September 1854, at 10 A. M. at Aurora, for the nomination of a candidate for Congress, and for the organization of a party which shall put the government upon a republican tack, and secure to non-slaveholders throughout the Union their just and constitutional weight and influence in the Councils of the Nation.

APPEAL TO THE CITIZENS OF ILLINOIS.

A solemn duty devolves upon you.

The duty of punishing the traitor Douglas.

The indignation which smothered his spurious defence, proclaimed to the nation the sense of your patriotism and the sense of his guilt. But this, after all, was only an ebullition of sentiment, and to vindicate a Nation's rights, to resent a nation's wrongs, more substantial demonstrations are required,—demonstrations which will outlive momentary excitement and the frenzy of popular passion; which will proclaim to future generations that the trust which American citizens put in the hands of their Representatives is a sacred trust, and that this trust is not to be betrayed with impunity.

Inspired with these sentiments, we call upon our fellow citizens, nay, we implore the citizens of Illinois to wipe out the stigma which their unworthy Representative has attached to their fair fame, by rising in mass to urge Douglas to resign his seat in the U. S. Senate.

If he resists the appeal he will die of ridicule, of ignominy; and if he yields to it, he will redeem his past by resigning himself to a fate for which he alone was to blame. We disown any personal feelings of bitterness against Mr. Douglas, except in so far as the human mind cannot disconnect the reflection upon a crime, with reflections upon the criminal. But we must say this much, that the individuality of the man is crushed to nameless insignificance under the weight of the principles, the violation of which has roused the nation's wrath.

We are not over anxious to drag religious illustrations in the arena of political discussion, but we cannot help thinking that it is easier to defend Cain than Douglas.

It may be said that Cain loved his God so passionately that the preference shown to Abel roused in his heart the fiercest demons of jealousy, and his crime, fearfully punished, as it was, by a revengeful God, had at least to plead the almighty excuse of fanatical love for Heaven.—And after all he murdered only one single individual; neither did he prepare for him agonies ten thousand times worse than death; he did not enslave his brother's soul, his freedom; he did not rob him of all elements of the enjoyment of life; he did not walk about under the garb of an honest man, and shame Heaven and earth by the hypocrisy that killing freedom and soul of man is not murder. He killed him outright, and that was the end of it.

But what shall we say of the man who, without divine passion to urge him on to lust in crime; who, without any other motive but earthly, selfish lust of power and notoriety, kills the souls and freedom of unborn millions, and commits this crime right in the face of those who implored him to oppose its consummation!

We repel with indignation the abominable cant of those who, because they tremble before the eternal Laws of God, cannot bear the startling light of sunny truth, and who, when the inexpressible criminality of the extension of slavery is exposed by refering to the equality before high Heaven of all men of whatever color and whatever race, sneer and laugh and mock the holy truth away, and scourge and torture the champion of justice and freedom, and, as of old, cry out: "Crucify him, crucify him!"

We also cry out, Crucify him! Yes, fellow citizens, Crucify him! But not the champion of freedom and justice.

Crucify the champion of despotism and slavery!

Christianity exhorts us to mercy for the poor sinner. Our heart is full of mercy for the poor slave, in whom oppression crushes out all instinct of humanity. But we have no mercy with the overbearing wretch, who, to gratify his selfish schemes, blackens his fair country's fame, breaks the bonds which gave it rest and peace, tramples upon all laws, human and divine, to perpetuate a crime which a mercenary soulless foreigner brought to our glorious shores, and to doom generation and generation to come to its blightening curse and its withering abominations.

Remember, fellow citizens, that like a felonious burglar, he broke in the sanctuary of national faith. The nation reposed its faith upon the sacred bond of the Missouri Compromise. All was peace, good will and harmony; but, lo, the great watchmen were gone—Clay and Webster were in their graves—and this felon snatches the treasure in order that in the confusion which must follow, he may fatten upon the spoils; and to make hell rejoice, he may perchance erect upon the ruins of faith and truth a temple of roguish sophistry, which may dazzle the squatter's vanity and redound to a Douglas' fame.

Remember, fellow citizens, that when the gallant band of patriots in the House of Representatives sat night after night to oppose the consummation of this crime, they were dismayed by the accusation of being Revolutionists:

"Trampling upon the forms of the Law, is Rebellion! But violation of the spirit of the Law, is Patriotism!"

Let Illinois proclaim the fallacy, by calling upon Douglas to resign a seat which he has disgraced. Let it go forth to the world that he who violates the spirit of the constitution, who feloniously tears asunder compromises and bonds of freedom, who sanctions the Jesuitism that self-government can justify anything which is in itself wrong, that he who thus injures the glorious principles of the fathers of our commonwealth, for spoils and selfish schemes, that he is the revolutionist, and he alone.

Let Illinois remember, that since the days when Greece and Rome went down and Christ arose, the world has not been in such agonies of fermentation as at this very moment. The Princes of Europe fight each other, and the people stand by in the hope that when rogues fall out, honest men come to their due; but all the while looking up to this country for inspiring examples, for moral emulation.

Fellow citizens of Illinois, do not allow the future historian to record, that at this eventful moment of the world's history, the sacred principles of self-government, the propagation of which is the fervent hope of countless millions of freemen all over the world, found no worthier advocate than a creature like Douglas, whose very face is the type of all that is animal, and the antagonist of all that is elevated and moral in man.

But remember, fellow citizens, it is not the fate of Douglas which concerns the world.

It is the fate of those sacred principles of self-government, which he and his slave-hunting clique seek to lower to their low purposes. And it is only by driving him out of power, that you can repair the injury which these principles met at his hand.

Let us disown resentment toward him, but since he has profaned your high and holy trust by dragging these high principles down to the mire of his selfish schemes, it has become your duty to mark your sense of that profanation, by bidding the man to quit at once the Nation's Senate, which his presence has disgraced.

Henry T. Duncan of Frankfort, Ky., an intimate and devoted friend of Henry Clay, had his scalp torn off by a violent toss from a wagon two or three days since, and is not expected to recover.

THE REPUBLICAN CONVENTION AT AURORA.—THE DUTIES IMPOSED UPON IT, AND WHAT THE PEOPLE EXPECT IT TO DO.

To-morrow the Convention of the people of this Congressional District meets at Aurora, to put in nomination the name of a man to represent them in the next Congress. The primary meetings, which have been held in the various portions of the District, to appoint delegates to this Convention, have all been characterized by the same spirit. An earnest desire to adopt the best and most efficient means to express their feelings upon the great question of the day, a willingness to throw off all old party ties and prejudices, and a determination to elect a man who should be not only firm, faithful and capable, but worthy of the support of the District, has marked all their deliberations. In the language of one of the resolutions passed at the primary meeting held in this city on Friday last, they have all resolved,

"That, repudiating our heretofore party attachments, we unite ourselves into a phalanx of freemen for freedom, and, adopting the name of Republicans, we pledge our sacred honors to fight on and fight ever for the principles in these resolutions."

We feel that it would not be inappropriate nor uncalled for, at this time, to impress upon the minds of the delegates to that Convention, something of what we deem to be the duties which will devolve upon them, and which the people of the Convention will look to them to faithfully and fully discharge. We trust that no one of their number will shut his eyes to the fact, that the present crisis in political affairs is one which has never before occurred in our history, and which demands a different mode of action from that ever before pursued. The time has passed by which might be called the age of organization, when party was placed in advance of principle, and the fortunes of individual men were preferred rather to the triumph of measures. There was then but little thinking done, or little independence manifested by the masses of the people. The desertion of party, was a much more serious offence that the abandonment of a principle, and to say of a man that he had bolted a nomination told with much more effect against his political fortunes, than to accuse him of official corruption or personal knavery.

This state of things exists no longer. The present era is one of social and moral reform, and the spirit of Progress is moving on with a speed that leaves even its most sanguine friends in the rear. A few years ago the measures which now occupy and agitate the popular mind, that are being carried forward to practical results, entering into the political movements of the day, and speaking boldly and confidently, and with potency too, through the ballot boxes, were denounced and scouted, ridiculed and contemned by all parties. To give utterance to an anti-slavery sentiment was political annihilation, and to advocate the cause of temperance, was to be set down as a fanatical disturber of society. To be called an anti-slavery man, or a temperance man, was enough to secure expulsion from all political association. Now, opposition to the extension of human slavery is a living element of every party. Temperance to the extent of prohibition has taken its position in defiance of all political parties, upheaving all political organizations, breaking through party tactics, and placing in utter contempt its heel upon the old maxims of party discipline. We, and all of our readers, can well recall the time when men dared not speak at all in opposition to the dictates of party, and party leaders, but now they talk boldly and fearlessly, with an upward look and a defiant brow. We all remember when men did not dare to whisper a doubt respecting a party measure, or a party candidate; when the corner grog-shops were the great right-bowers of party; and when the "foreign vote," and "our Catholic brethren" were courted, knelt to, and caressed. Now, they say what they please of men and measures; decry all faith in grog-shops and treat their assistance as a doubtful aid; and regard American sentiment and American men as entitled to the control of their own country and the manufacture of their own laws. These, and more than these changes have taken place in the popular sentiment. Heretofore politicians have asked only what is expedient? and having settled that moved on and the people marched after them. Now the people ask, "what is right?" and having fixed upon the answer, they move on, trampling alike upon old political organizations, political discipline, and political leaders too, unless like wise men, they foresee the evil and hide themselves.

It will be vitally important, then, and it is this which we wish to impress upon the mind of every member of the Convention which meets to-morrow, that they should fully understand the temper and spirit of the times, and wholly appreciate the extent and importance of the change which has taken place in the relative positions of the people and the politicians. They must cease to cling to usages which are unfitted to the condition of the public mind, and to acts which have ceased to be potential. They must not threaten to annihilate all who shall not yield a blind obedience to the behests of party, and the commands of caucuses, and conventions, while the people snap their fingers at their threats. They must cease at once and forever, to court the aid of the corner groceries, and the grogshops, trembling before the bloated and unwashed devotees of dissipation and debauchery that burrow in dark alleys, and in the narrow and filthy streets. They must not wink at licentiousness and scout reform, lest they should offend those who have for years been fished up, or raked together, been pitted and paid to control elections, and give a triumph to their former party; and they must not shrink back in horror at the policy that looks to the improvement of the social and the moral condition of the people, lest they should offend the sensibilities of those whose fortunes and whose prosperity is based upon human degradation, and the spread of human woes.

They must, in a word, and we have faith to believe that they will do so, they must comprehend, in all its significance the fact that the people have learned to think and act for themselves; that the moral influence that sways the popular mind is not an evanescent impulse, but a fixed and permanent fact; and that hence, the appliances which have heretofore controlled the masses, whether of Whigs or Democrats, are powerless now, and will be so for years to come.

The Convention which meets to-morrow is to take the first official step toward the organization of a great Republican party, in this district. The people are ripe for this movement; they are anxious for it; they demand it. It must be a party to which they can give their warmest political affections, and for the success of whose principles they they can labor with all their hearts. It must be a party eminently calculated to preserve social order and advance the banner of freedom. It must adhere firmly to the constitution, upholding its sanctions and giving free course to all its requirements, but checking at once and forever the progress of slavery. Its instincts will be all on the side of freedom, and its action will also be on that side. It will interfere with the private dealings or personal habits of no man, but when those dealings or habits interfere with the public good; when they corrupt public morals or disturb social order; when they burthen industry by taxation, destroy the public quiet, or jeopard the security of life and property, then the Republican party in carrying out the great conservative principles which must underlie its organization, should step in with its salutary restraints to check those dealings or habits which scatter nothing but evil over the country.

In the selection of a man to be the standard bearer of these principles, the convention will have an important, and a weighty duty to discharge. In view of the changed political aspect of the times, the changed spirit of the age, the altered public sentiment, and the mighty issues to be settled within the next two years, we are confident that they will agree with us in the opinion that the man who would lead the Republican party in this district, must be a man in whom the people can fully trust, and in whom there is no guile. He must be a STATESMAN, and not merely a POLITICIAN. He must be a PATRIOT, and not merely a MANAGER. His determination must be invincible and his magnanimity must equal his determination. We have faith to believe that the convention will select such a man. We have faith to believe that we have such a man in our midst, for it is true, as we have often seen in the history of our nation, that "in the ordering of Providence, great emergencies and great men are born and bred together."

But more and above all this, the convention should bear in mind and never lose sight of the fact, that the people expect this convention to bring about such an organization and consolidation of the entire anti-Slavery sentiment of the District, as will ensure the victory of anti-slavery principles here, not only during the present canvass, but throughout the future. Its members must not go there as Whigs, Democrats or Free Soilers. They must, upon entering its doors, lay off their former distinctive party appellations, and come up upon the Republican platform, as REPUBLICANS and as nothing else. Let them be magnanimous, forgiving, conciliatory and wise. In harmonious action, in conciliating temper, and in patriotic love, let every member excel, and let no private jealousies or personal enmities be suffered to invade its precincts or disturb its deliberations. So shall its result be such a one as shall be pregnant with good, and its nominee triumphantly elected.

POLITICAL.

The Douglas branch of the democratic party have issued a call for a Mass Convention of the party for the Sixth Congressional District, on the 3d of October next, at Springfield. This will be the first day of the State Fair. On the following day, the great State Anti-Nebraska Convention of THE PEOPLE will assemble at the same place. Springfield will be thronged with visitors about that time.

Wisconsin Portion of the Lake Shore Railroad.

We have seen a despatch from New York, which states authoritatively that means have been obtained to secure the completion of this portion of the Lake Shore Railroad, by the 1st of January next.

MORE HARMONY.

The Kane county Democratic Convention met at Geneva, on Saturday, and resolved:

That the delegates be instructed to use all honorable means to secure the renomination of Hon. John Wentworth for Congressional Representative, as the first choice of Kane county; and have power to fill vacancies, or cast the entire vote of the county.

The Democrats of Geneva, on the night previous, held a caucus and resolved

That our delegates be and are hereby instructed to use their best efforts to defeat the demands of the Hon. John Wentworth, M. C. from this district for renomination, believing in the Democratic system of rotation in office.

The harmony of these two resolutions is pleasantly apparent.

ED. TRIBUNE: Can you inform us why the arrangements at our Post Office are so made that we are obliged to loose a quarter or half day's time in order to get postage stamps. It must be well known to our P. M. that it is a great convenience to us to be able to procure stamps and envelopes in the evening, when most of us go to the Post Office. If you will inform us, you will oblige MANY WORKING MEN.

Chicago, Sept. 18, 1854.

We presume that this matter, under the present system of postal arrangements, is entirely at the discretion of the Postmaster, and that he consults his own pleasure in the arrangements he makes concerning it. Indeed, we are not certain that he is obliged to sell stamps and envelopes at all, but is merely allowed to do so, as an accommodation to the public. We are not certain about this, but that is our impression.

Perhaps Postmaster Cook, will hereafter, find it convenient to let a clerk be in attendance at the place for the sale of stamps and envelopes, during the evenings, and if he does, he will certainly confer a favor upon a large class of the community.—[ED. TRIBUNE.

OHIO AND MISSISSIPPI RAILROAD.

We are glad that the last estimates necessary for the completion of this road have been made, and that they amount to a very inconsiderable sum. The whole sum necessary to complete the grading, &c., for the road to Vincennes, is 153,000. The cost of laying the track is 40,000; making a total of 193,000 to complete the road from Illinoistown to Vincennes, where it is to connect with the road from Cincinnati. The rails are all paid for, and will be laid as soon as possible. It will not be long before a connection is made with the Central Railroad, and then we shall have a continuous Railroad from St. Louis to Chicago. We hope to see this accomplished in a month or two, and for this purpose extraordinary efforts should be made.—St. Louis Republican.

CARROLL COUNTY.—Gentlemen from Carroll county inform us, that the people are almost unanimously opposed to Nebraskaism, and that a large number of the democrats intend to make their voice directly felt on the subject, by casting a plump vote for Washburne for Congress. This shows good sense as well as patriotism.—How are such political abuses to be prevented, unless it be by voting them down?—Galena Advertiser.

THE ANTI-NEBRASKA MEETING.

The Anti-Nebraska meeting in this village on the 9th inst. was a large and respectable gathering. Some uncertainty was felt as to the time of day at which the meeting would be held; and we apprehend that many were thereby prevented from being present.

The Hon. Joshua R. Giddings, who addressed the meeting, arrived in town, from Freeport, between twelve and one o'clock. Before two o'clock, the time finally fixed for the address, it became evident that the court-house would not contain the audience, and preparations were therefore made for the speaker in the porch of the building, and on his making his appearance the crowd took its position in front.

The address was listened to with unbroken attention, and evidence occasionally given that the voice of the multitude was for Freedom. A gentleman who stood in a position to judge with accuracy as to the number present, informed us that about 1600 persons listened to the address.—Ogle County Reporter.

NO NEW TESTS.—A capital thing that was of A. F. Bell of Ionia, who, by the way, never said a bad thing in his life. A knot of Democratic politicians were collected after the Congressional convention at Kalamazoo, on Thursday, when the subject of State Officers came up, and the name of Sullivan, of Cass county, was mentioned in connection with the office of Attorney General. The person who recommended him was asked "what kind of man is he?" "Oh, a first rate fellow!" was the answer. "A good lawyer, a perfect gentleman, and an upright, honest man." "Hold on there," said Bell, "we want no new tests introduced into our party."

A Virginia correspondent of the Journal of Commerce is responsible for the following—said to be a genuine bill rendered by a colored man to one of the clergy, for services performed:

Bishop ———— to Ge Cup. Dr.
To Beesafeda	$00 50
To Agettinonimon	00 25

This negro would make a good modern reporter. He has an ear. Translated into our dialect would read thus:

Bishop ———— to Jacob, Dr.
To bay horse half a day,	50 cts.
To getting him home,	25 "

A HARD HIT.—About the hardest hit we have seen is the following, which is contained in John Mitchell's recent letter to Archbishop Hughes:

"Now does your Grace see anything so horrible in a plantation of negroes? Are you not aware that priests, bishops, monasteries, yea, Popes, have held slaves? Yet is it not wonderful that you should not covet a plantation in the South, so long as you possess that enviable piece of property, the Calvary Cemetery, where I see by the newspapers 446 of your flock were buried last week at a fee of FIVE DOLLARS per corpse to you. I wish your Grace joy. I shall be almost tempted, instead of a well-stocked plantation in Alabama, to wish for a well-peopled grave yard on Long Island."

INSURANCE FAILURES.—THEIR CAUSE.

The recent failure of the Protection Insurance Company of Hartford, naturally gives rise to many reflections on this important branch of business so, extensively carried on in our country, and so imperatively demanded by our business men. That all companies, good, bad and indifferent, will suffer from the panic produced by the present failure, is self-evident, and that there is actually no cause for the opprobrium which many will receive is equally true. That there are companies which every person requiring safety in their Insurance should shun, is a truism which no one will dare controvert. Like Prospero's spirits, their patrons will wake some morning and find them

"Melted into air, into thin air;
And like the baseless fabric of this vision,
[illegible]
Leave not a wreck behind."

But that there is a method of distinguishing the good from the bad as readily as one can detect a counterfeit of Uncle's Sam's coin, is a fact which many dispute, but which I will endeavor to show.

It is very probable that some, and perhaps many others will follow the failure of the "old stand-by," that company located at Hartford, the place which was never known to have a company, or bank, fail within its borders. But a very careful examination will suffice any man in his endeavors to find a responsible institution, without regard to the assertions of interested agents or flaming advertisements.

To any person of careful research, it will readily occur that no failure has ever taken place in a bona fide company whose capital was a cash one, and unimpaired. This is so plain that I need not prove it. Past experience is a safe guide for us to pursue for the future, and we may carry the above assertion to all branches of business, and as we find it exemplified, we can with safety rely upon it for our future course.

Secondly—No bogus company will make use of an actual cash capital for their purposes. It costs too much, and there is too much hazard. Of course, such companies will make a great display of figures representing capital, but in no case will they endeavor to show in what manner it exists, or how it is invested. It is no great labor to discover this fact in a search for a good company, for every agent should be able to show it in behalf of those for whom he acts. It is apparent, therefore, that cash capital forms one of the principal points in the safety and responsibility of a company, and that bogus companies rely more upon wind than anything else in their solicitations for patronage.

Thirdly—Those companies which confine themselves to their own city for business, or have but few agents, and those in cities of importance, where in the natural course of things, the revenue will exceed the losses, may be placed in the category of safe ones. It is an indisputable fact that the mass of honest failures have been produced through enormous losses at agencies, and in a great many cases, in such risks as the company would reject if brought under their personal supervision. The indiscriminate establishment of agencies may be pointed to as one of the principal causes of losses, and these are the causes of suspensions. This, taken in connection with the fact that the Protection Company had 600 agents, scattered over the United States and Canadas, may induce people to withhold their patronage from companies which follow its example.

Fourthly—It is a safe assertion that no company will fail when it is making money. The market value of Insurance stocks will lead, at once, to its true position as a money making company. Here we have need to call Wall street to our aid, and the public may feel safe in trusting to companies whose stock in ordinary times, approaches its par value, and which are recorded in that financial community as one of the dividend paying kind, it forms a sure basis of respectability.

Finally—Those companies, which through agencies, take risks of every grade and character, and seek them, should be regarded with a jealous eye. Merchants occupying fire-proof stores sho'd not feel like risking their property by the side of planing mills. And companies that take this class of risks through agencies, are very apt to be imposed upon in the effort to get the risk approved, and thus secure the commission, and they frequently get risks upon their books which they would instantly reject upon personal inspection.

People who seek security in their insurance should patronize those companies which exercise the most care in all departments of their business. Their agents should be limited in the duties which go to make up the profits and losses of the institution. It is a pretty safe maxim that those which take small risks, and have them well scattered, will very rarely subject themselves to the heavy and enormous losses of which we so frequently read.

In conclusion, I will recapitulate those questions, which, in my opinion, should be answered in the affirmative in order to distinguish the good companies from the unsafe:

Has it an actual capital, and is it cash?

Is that capital unimpaired, and well invested?

Is the stock commanding a fair price, and is it a dividend paying company?

Are their agencies limited to the larger cities, and are they careful in the selection of risks?

Are the officers and directors men of known respectability and probity—men who have reputation to suffer in case of mismanagement, and who would never allow their names to be connected with an institution until they had carefully examined its position and capacity.

Of course, my readers will understand me as referring entirely to fire companies in this article. Life and Marine Insurance is conducted on a different basis, and does not need elucidation in connection with these remarks. D.

Extract from a letter to the Editor, dated:
SARATOGA, Sept. 8, 1854.

MR. EDITOR: * * * * You can consider me a subscriber to your valuable paper as long as it pounces upon the Rummies, Catholics and the infamous Nebraska bill and its authors.

I have read with great pleasure your report of the great Douglas vindication meeting, on Friday evening. I felt proud of Chicago.

I could not believe that the prophesy of Dan Davidson would prove true that little Dug would come to Chicago and whip them all in as he did on the Compromise measures of '50.

The action of the citizens of Chicago in rebuking the traitor Douglas has made the hearts of many rejoice in this place, and it has given given them new hopes, more courage, and new life. The chief topic of conversation is the Douglas defeat in Chicago. The influence of that defeat will be felt in this State, and will tell upon the coming election.

I often hear the question asked—What will become of Douglas? Some think he will leave the State and go on his plantation in the South.—Some say he will hold on and make a great effort to regain what he has lost before his time of service in the Senate expires. Some say he is politically dead, not only in his own State, but it will ruin his prospects for the White House.

One very shrewd old gentleman remarked to me that the traitor S. Arnold Douglas would probably either sell off his slaves in the South or take them with him to Cuba, and attempt to get up a revolution there that he might be dictator, but said he, whether he remains in the State or not he is dead.

I see that a few of those holding office under Uncle Sam's appointment, stuck fast to his coat tail while Dug was there. I wonder if they don't feel mean, about these days.

I am pleased to see the people abandoning old party lines, and uniting upon the platform of freedom.

The people of this State are coming up to the right point as you will see by the action of the convention held here a short time since.

Vermont has done nobly, and I trust other States will not be found behind in rebuking the Nebraskaites. Yours truly,

From the Boston Post.

"BOOTS."

CHICAGO, Sept. 16th, 1854.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—Last evening for the first time in six months in company with a friend from a neighboring city, I visited the Theatre. I was surprised at the improvement made by the several actors and actresses.

One circumstance however, mortified me much. I allude to a matter that followed the cry of "Boots, Boots!" It seems that a man from the country, who occupied a seat in the gallery, happened to put his foot or toe upon the cap of the seat before him. Immediately the cry of "Boots" was raised, whereupon an individual claiming the official functions, approached the unsuspecting young man, and in a peremptory style ordered him out of the Theatre. He was not instantly obeyed. At this the official of Emerald descent grew pompous, boisterous, and threatening. The young man finally arose, left his seat, and started for the gangway. The "richness" of the "brogue" then become more apparent. He made an impression upon the young man of his official power, and like all courageous men, he followed it up with the air of even a greater man and a more powerful official than his beseeching attitude a few minutes before indicated. Not content with threats, he commenced striking and punching the poor fellow with his hands and heavy cane, and finally struck him a heavy blow with his staff. This young man submitted to all this impertinance and assault for the reason that he was ignorant of his rights. He supposed that this Irishman had a legal right to arrest him for putting his toe upon the back of the seat before him. This young man was guilty of no offence or crime known to the law. His arrest was illegal, and an abuse of official power. He would have been justified had he resisted this indignity with a sufficient strength or force to overcome this assault, though made by an "official." Officers are not shielded from the penalty of doing wrong, or of invading personal rights, by reason of official position. He is amenable to as well as an administrator of law. This officer was guilty of Assault and Battery, and also of False Imprisonment, if he took the young man to the Watch House. If this thing is permitted by the manager of the Theatre, the next thing we shall hear, will be, that one of these officers has been knocked down or shot, for he will likely to come in contact with some one who may better understand his rights and make bold to maintain them, and who can say in such an event that he did wrong? The owners of the Theatre have a civil remedy for all injuries done their edifice by such an act, but the act itself is no crime, and he who treats the perpetrator of such an act, as a crime, lays himself liable to the laws of the State, let his official standing be what it may. There was a good deal of feeling apparent in the assembly at the insult offered and perpetrated upon one of their number. It is unmannerly to place the feet upon the seats before you and all true gentlemen will refrain from doing so, but while we say this, we oppose all assumptions so flagrant and inhuman, and so contrary to law and decency. A CITIZEN.

VICTORY!

DOUGLAS ON THE STUMP!
MEETING RE-ORGANIZED.
Hopkins Called to the Chair.
ANTI-NEBRASKA RESOLUTIONS!
THE PEOPLE TRIUMPHANT!
DEMAGOGUES BELOW PAR!
SELLING OFF AT COST!

Hurrah for Grundy! Hurrah for Hopkins! Hurrah for the Know Nothings! Hurrah for Everybody!

For upwards of a week past, a certain clique of Grundyites, who had determined, at all risks and all sacrifices, to cling to the skirts of Stephen A. Douglas, had been breathing out all sorts of mutterings as to an expected visit from the Hon. Senator in the course of his stumping tour through the State. The people here were told that it only needed the presence of the illustrious Senator, with his stereotyped "vindication," to scatter every element of opposition, and arouse all Grundy to frenzy in his favor. Of course, all good anti-Nebraska men trembled in their boots for fear, and all hearts were heavy with a sense of an impending something. On Tuesday, according to programme, the Great I Am, duly arrived on the 11 A. M. train, and was met at the depot by a choice group of adherents, into whose hands he surrendered himself, and was immediately stowed away at an obscure Hotel, being utterly opposed, of course, to the Hopkins House, from the fact that a live "Know Nothing" has been known, for several days past, to have been secreted in the cupalo of that building.

At 2 o'clock P. M., the Honorable gentleman, escorted by the aforesaid choice group of the faithful, proceeded to the stand which had been erected for his accommodation on the prairie, around which a group of about 600 citizens had gathered. There he commenced his harrangue, and there he was listened to with the utmost attention, until the last words dropped from his lips. With respect to the speech, it is only necessary for us to say, that from beginning to end, it was the merest effort of special-pleading, falsification, sophistry, arrogance and bravado, that we ever recollect to have listened to. It was an entire tissue of silly sophisms, lame logic, low wit, and insulting misrepresentation, which was quietly listened to in deference to the freedom of speech, and quietly laughed at in deference to freedom of opinion. The honorable gentleman even stooped so low as to introduce several local points into his speech—hinting that Mr. W. T. Hopkins was one of the disturbers of the meeting in Chicago, and stating, with infinite wit, that the "Know Nothings" would meet in the Hopkins House, on Monday evening next.

Immediately on the cessation of the gentleman's pre-eminently long-winded effort, Mr. Mason, of Kendall county, was called upon, and then for the first time it appeared that the meeting was regularly organized, and the fact was stated by Mr. Seely, one of the members of the Douglas tableaux on the platform. The assemblage then, by acclamation, appointed Mr. W. T. Hopkins, President, and J. N. Reading, Esq., Secretary. A shout was then raised for Mr. Hopkins, who in a few terse, pointed and witty remarks, scattered Mr. Douglas' sophisms and slanders to the winds, and on concluding was greeted with three of the heartiest cheers that true manhood and true principle ever elicited from an appreciative audience.

Mr. Mason was then called for, and responded in a very able exposition of the fallacies of the Senator, and an explanation of the operation of the slaveholder's vote and influence, as opposed to the freemen of the North, showing that the slaveholder with five negroes, exercises as much power as four white freemen.

The following resolutions were then successively and unanimously adopted, not one dissenting voice in the whole assemblage. The people then dispersed in the highest good humor.

WHEREAS, the unhappy differences existing between the Northern and Southern portions of the Union upon the subject of slavery, had happily been adjusted to the satisfaction of both sections of the country, and of both the great political parties of the day, by the Compromise of 1820, known as the Missouri Compromise, and that of 1850, known as the Fugitive Slave Law, and whereas, the country was enjoying quiet and repose from the agitation of this most exciting subject since the act of 1850, until the question was again precipitated upon the country by the introduction of the unexpected, mischievous, and uncalled for measure, known as the Nebraska bill, before the Congress of the United States, at its last session, therefore, be it

Resolved, That we, the people of the county of Grundy, most unhesitatingly and unqualifiedly condemn the introduction of that measure as a breach of the compact between the South and the North upon the question of slavery, as a repudiation of the principles of the platform of both the great political parties of the day, as one which has again disturbed the quiet, peace and harmony of the country, and has called again into action the elements of discord and disunion between us and our Southern brethren, and as one calculated to jeopardize the future existence of this country, as a free Republic.

Resolved, That we condemn and deplore the course pursued by our Senator in Congress from the Northern part of this State, and we pledge ourselves to all honorable means to counteract its effects, to procure the repeal of the Nebraska bill, and restore the principle of the Missouri Compromise.

Resolved, That the vindication of his course which he has just made before us this afternoon, is altogether unsatisfactory, and has the more confirmed us in our previous views in reference to the subjects he has discussed.

Resolved, That these resolutions be published in the Chicago papers, and in the Morris Yeoman.

W. T. HOPKINS, Ch'n.
J. N. READING, Sec'y.

The whole matter may be summed up as follows: The people of Grundy assembled to the number of at least 500 souls, to hear Douglas; the Senator spoke for two mortal hours, and was listened to with uninterrupted attention; the "democratic meeting" adjourned, diminishing the number of the crowd about thirty, and augmenting its character about 330; a peoples' meeting was organized, anti-Nebraska speeches were made, and the strongest kind of anti-Douglas resolutions passed without one dissenting voice. Well done, little Grundy! Well, nobly, neatly, intelligently, effectually done. Where's George?

Illness of Gov. Bigler.

Philadelphia, Sept. 14.

Gov. Bigler is very ill with inflamation of the bowels, and it is thought he will not recover.

It has been raining here since 5 o'clock. The weather is warm and sultry.

The schooner John Potts, Capt. Brown, was driven ashore in the late gale near Cape Fear. All on board except the second mate perished.—There were three passengers on board besides the Captain's wife.

A private letter from Columbia says that there is great suffering at that place among the poor on account of the prevalence of the cholera. No work was to be had, business being suspended. Many children were parentless.

Texas and Mexico—Great Battle.

New Orleans, Sept. 11.

We are in receipt of Galveston dates to the 8th inst., but beyond the fact that yellow fever was on the increase in that city, we find no news worth telegraphing.

From Brownsville, the 2d inst., we learn that a battle of three days' duration is reported to have been fought at Victoria between the Government troops and the insurgents. The latter finally retired with a small loss, while the Government troops are reported to have lost 400 men.

San Luis Potosi had raised the standard of rebellion.

The number of deaths from yellow fever at the Hospital during the past week has been 125.

Cholera at Columbia, Pa.

Columbia, Sept. 14.

There have been 83 deaths by cholera since last Friday evening to noon to-day, and 6 deaths additional since dark last evening to noon to-day. There were four new cases this morning, and there are a number of cases of diarrahea prevailing.

OH, MY EYES!—DOUGLAS BECOMING TERRIBLY PIOUS.—The Cleveland Plain Dealer is certifying to the piety of Senator Douglas! "Senator Douglas does not swear," says the Plain Dealer. We'll bet him one on that. "He was never heard to use profane language." Does he only look swear? A Douglas man, writing to the Free Press, says Douglas's significant eyes and lips, on the occasion of his Chicago speech seemed to say to the crowd "shoot and be damned!" But here comes the cap sheaf. The Plain Dealer says: "He is a professor of religion, prays in his family, and in a model man morally!!" It is surely a great comfort to hear that one of the chiefest of sinners has repented. The beclouding of his political future by the Nebraska bill, has probably weaned him from the vanities of the world.—Rochester Union.

WORMS, WORMS, WORMS!

A great many learned treatises have been written, explained the origin of, and classifying the worms generated in the human system. Scarcely any topic of medical science has elicited more acute observation and profound research; and yet physicians are very much divided in opinion on the subject. It must be admitted, however, that after all, a mode of expelling them and purifying the body from their presence is of more value than the wisest disquisitions as to their origin.

Such an expelling agent has at last been found. Dr. M'Lane's Vermifuge proves to be the much sought after specific—its efficacy being universally acknowledged by the entire medical faculty. As further proof, read the following from a lady—one of our own citizens:

NEW YORK, October 15, 1852.

This is to certify that I was troubled with worms for more than a year. I was advised to use M'LANE'S CELEBRATED VERMIFUGE. I took one bottle, which brought away about fifty worms; I commenced improving at once, and am now perfectly well. The public can learn my name, and further particulars, by applying to Mrs. Hardie, No. 3 Manhattan place, or to E. L. Theall, Druggist, corner of Rutger and Monroe streets.

Purchasers will be careful to ask for Dr. M'LANE'S CELEBRATED VERMIFUGE, and take none else. All other Vermifuges, in comparison, are worthless.

Dr. M'Lane's Vermifuge, also his Celebrated Liver Pills, can now be had at all respectable Drug Stores in the United States and Canada. se19

WHIG CONVENTION—SECOND CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT.

The Whigs of the Second Congressional District are requested to meet by counties, at such times and places as may be most convenient to them respectively, and appoint delegates to a District Convention to be held at Aurora on Wednesday the 20th day of September next, for the purpose, upon consultation, of taking such measures in regard to the nomination of a candidate for Congress in the District as will best secure the strength of the party in a united effort with other friends of Freedom, in opposition to the aggression and extension of slavery.

The ratio of apportionment will be based upon the census of 1850, allowing one delegate for each county, in addition to one for every three thousand inhabitants and one for each fraction over two thousand.

The Fugitive Slave Turner.

It seems that the negro recently arrested in this city, by the Messrs. Buchanan and Grant, was the property of Capt. George Taylor, of the steamer Belfast, running on the Mississippi river. About eighteen months ago the negro went to Capt. Taylor, and persuaded him to buy him, and give him a chance to pay for himself. The Captain allowed him to hire out his time just as he pleased, and in fact never considered him as his slave, but more as a person to whom he had lent money to buy himself. After the negro had paid back part of the money, some of his friends persuaded him to run away.

After he had been gone some time, it is reported that he sent word to Capt. Taylor from this city, stating that he did not mean to cheat him out of his money, but would return shortly and pay it. During the past year he sent several such messages, until at length the Captain began to be uneasy about his money, and determined to have the negro arrested. He obtained a requisition from the Governor of Missouri, and had all the necessary papers made out to secure the arrest. These he placed in the hands of George and John Buchanan, of St. Louis, who started at once for this city, in order to have them served.

On their arrival here, the proper course for them to adopt would have been to place the writs, &c., in the hands of the U. S. Marshal, and then point out to him the negro. If then he had failed to arrest him, or the citizens had rescued him, the United States would have been bound to indemnify his owners for his loss, in accordance with the provisions of the Fugitive Slave Law. Instead of pursuing this course, they, on seeing the negro passing along the street, undertook to arrest him themselves, which they clearly had no right to do. This, however, they were not aware of, but thought they had the right to take the negro wherever they found him. Their mistake, unfortunately for themselves, resulted in their own imprisonment.

REV. MR. ELLIOTT of St. Louis, preached an able and practical discourse in this city on Sunday evening last, at the Unitarian church.

The Murder on Friday Night.

The name of the man whom it is supposed was murdered in this city on Friday night last, and his body afterward placed on the Galena Railroad track, where it was run over and shockingly mutilated by a freight train, was Anthony Baker. He was an Englishman by birth, and represented himself as recently from Germantown, Pa., and on his way to Woodstock, Illinois. He was considerably intoxicated during the evening while at the Yorkshire House, where he showed his money, which probably tempted some fiend to murder him for the purpose of getting it.—One of the pockets of his pantaloons was cut open, and his money belt, which was found near him, was also cut.

Two men were arrested on Saturday night, supposed to be implicated in the affair. Their names are John Crosfield and William Barrill. The case will come before the Grand Jury this forenoon.

Marine.

Arrived at Buffalo on the 15th, barque Great West, from Chicago. Cleared on the same day, for this port—propellers Mayflower, and Sciota; brigs Andes, and Northampton; schooners Ocean Wave, Fashion, Seaman, Flying Cloud, and L. M. Mason.

WHAT'S THE MATTER? None of the city papers of yesterday, except our own, had the Telegraph's account of Douglas' defeat at Rock Island on Saturday. What's the matter? The Times at least, ought to be posted on its master's progress.

Drowned.

Coroner Hines held an inquest on Sunday night, on the body of James Dugan, an Irishman, who was found drowned in the river, near the Lake House Ferry. He was a laboring man, and leaves a wife in this city.—He had on only a shirt and pair of pantaloons. The deceased had been missing since Thursday night last. A verdict of "accidental drowning" was rendered.

LARCENY.—John Miller and wife were yesterday arrested for abetting in the stealing of some harness, and lodged in Jail, to await their trial.

At some of the hotels in Vermont they give you a glass of "good river water," which has such a peculiar flavor that some people mistake it for schnapps, and leave a fourpence on the counter.

POLICE OFFICER MURDERED! ARREST OF THE MURDERER.

Full Particulars of the Affray.

Yesterday afternoon, about 2 o'clock, officer Casper Lower, of the Day Police, arrested on Edina Place, between Polk and Taylor streets, an Irishman named Patrick Cunningham. He started with his prisoner for the Watch House, but on arriving at the corner of Jackson street and Edina Place, Cunningham suddenly grabbed the officer's cane from him, and at the same time caught hold of a tree, thus refusing to proceed any further. We heard it stated during yesterday afternoon that the prisoner declared "he would be d——d if he would go any further."—A scuffle immediately ensued between the two, during which Lower received a mortal stab in the left side, between the fifth and six ribs, which caused his death in less than ten minutes afterwards. The wound was inflicted with a large bowie knife—the blade being eight and a half inches long, and one and five-eighths inches wide.

After receiving the stab, Casper struck his murderer two heavy blows over the left side of the head with his cane—having previously recovered it from him. Cunningham was knocked into a gutter, bleeding profusely. An express wagon coming along, the dying officer was assisted into it by the driver, who was ordered to drive immediately to the nearest drug store.—During this time, a number of citizens were assembling near the spot, and Lower spoke to them, requesting that Cunningham should not be allowed to escape, and said "he's the man who stabbed me." These were the last words he uttered. The officer had presence of mind enough to take the knife into the wagon with him, and also to wind his handkerchief around it. He was not probably aware how seriously he was stabbed, although he bled profusely from the moment he received the wound, and his clothes were soon saturated with blood. The knife is supposed to have struck the heart, and it drained his body of all its blood in a few minutes.

The express wagon was driven to the drug store of Dr. M. Jerome, on the corner of Adams and Clark streets. Dr. J. was called out, and found Mr. L. setting on the seat, alongside the driver, leaning on him, and vomiting. He was laid on the floor of the wagon, and Dr. Jerome proceeded to examine his wound. He found it still bleeding, and could penetrate it with his finger to the heart. Finding that no earthly power could save the man, the wagon drove to the police office at once. Mr. Lower did not make the least motion to speak from the first that Dr. Jerome saw him. It is supposed that he died immediately after leaving the store, as he was dead on reaching the Watch House.

An immense crowd quickly collected in Court Square, and great excitement prevailed. All sorts of stories were being related, and it was at one time difficult to fully decide on the state of the case.

The intelligence soon spread, and officers were despatched to the scene of the fight. They found Cunningham in the gutter, bleeding from the wounds on his head, and conveyed him forthwith to Jail.

The prisoner, in answer to questions from the Mayor and our Reporter, said that the officer was stabbed by some person to him unknown; that about an hour and a half previous to the fight, he had a dispute with another Irishman named McCann—Patrick, he believed was his christian name; that the trouble was in relation to different parts of Ireland, "and," said he, "Irishmen you know are always disputing." He also said that he and McCann had been acquainted about three weeks, that for the past few days they had been drinking together, and that McCane was a tailor by trade, lived on the West Side, but he didn't know in what exact locality. This story however was not believed, as the prisoner when first put into his cell said that he did not know what the name of the third man was, and made other statements altogether different from what we have related.

Coroner Hines having arrived, proceeded to empannel a Jury in the Watch House, and the prisoner was brought in to confront the witnesses. The first one called was Henrietta Shattle. On being sworn, she related the following story:

I was standing on a door step, on the corner of Edina Place and Jackson street—the first I saw of the fracas was two persons standing on the corner, in a scuffle—thought they were boys, fighting—one had a knife in his hand, and the other a pistol—both also had hold of a cane, and each was striving to get possession of it—the officer held his pistol in his right hand, the man with the knife held it in his left hand—this was when I first saw them.

The prisoner looks like the man who had the knife—saw him afterwards in the ditch, when the struggle was over—he is the man who lay in the ditch, till the officers came and took him away—the man held out his hand with the knife in it before he was struck with the cane—the officer then struck the man with his cane—the man caught hold of a tree, and both men struggled for the mastery—when the man drew his knife, and made a pass with it, the officer pulled out a pistol—the man said, "shoot me, and I'll be safe", —the reply was, "No, I'll not shoot you; I'll take something else—the officer then put his revolver in his right coat pocket, (where Captain Nichols, of the Police, afterwards found it.)

The man was endeavoring to use his knife—did not see the stab given—saw several blows given with the cane—saw the officer go away in the express wagon, and the crowd gather—knew he had been stabbed, but did not see the knife enter his side—there were no others in the affray, and no one standing near by.

The other witnesses were not examined. The knife made an incision through a thick coat worn by the deceased, also through his vest, making a clear passage to his heart—the blade of the knife fitted the cut in the garments.

The knife was produced before the Jury, and it was a wicked looking instrument. Its dimensions have been previously given. On the blade was the following inscription:

IXL—Geo. Westenholm & Son—CALIFORNIA KNIFE.

The same name was also on the hilt, with the addition of "Washington Works." The handle was a polished black, with a piece of silver on one side, and both ends were covered with ivory.

The jury returned a verdict that Casper Lower came to his death by a stab in the heart with a bowie knife, in the hands of Patrick Cunningham.

The deceased was the oldest Policeman in the city service, and was a most faithful and efficient officer. He was born in France, of German origin, and had been in the United States about 15 years. He had lived in this city 14 years, five of which have been spent in the Police service.—He leaves a wife and three small children in this city, but in good circumstances. He also has here three sisters and one brother. His mother resides in Buffalo.

The members of the Council, at their meeting yesterday, resolved to attend his funeral this afternoon, in a body.

Holloway's Ointment and Pills are superior Remedies for Bad Legs and all kinds of Wounds.—The surprising sale of these invaluable medicines throughout the Union, is the most convincing proof of their efficacy in curing bad legs, old wounds, and scrofulous sores. Thousands of people who have suffered from these dreadful maladies, have been cured by their use, after every other remedy failed; and it is a fact beyond all doubt, that there is no case, however obstinate or bad, that may not be shortly cured by those wonderful medicines, therefore the afflicted should immediately try Holloway's Ointment and Pills.
